THE APPROACHING ELECTIONS IN MARYLAND. Our fellow-citizens of this old and honored State are, under their new constitution, to assume new and increased responsibilities. They are to exercise functions that have been seldom retained by the people, to whom they legitimately belong, and to elevate from the common walks of life the men who are to enact, interpret, and administer the laws under which they are to live. How important is it that passion, prejudice, and party influence should be silenced, and that this duty should be discharged in the most calm, earnest, and conscientious manner! That a feeling of this responsibility is realized, and that Maryland will do honor to the cause of popular suffrage, of which she has so nobly become a champion, we fondly trust. We look to her for a practical vindication of this cause, and a practical rebuke of those who have doubted the ability of they have declared to belong to them. May they know that the eyes of their countrymen of every State are upon them, and that the action of the people of other States may be determined by the success with which they shall guide the affairs of their Commonwealth. If law, order, and justice shall reign supreme within her dominions, and a guarantee of permanency and security be thus given, the antiquated bonds of other members of our National Union will be soon loosed, and the cause of true republicanism will prosper.

In allusion to this subject the Baltimore Sun has some sound, sensible and patriotic remarks, from which we quote the following practical recommendations. Let them be perused and well sidered by every one who enjoys the prome distinction of AN ELECTOR in that State :

"Of the various offices for which the people are to select incumbents from among their fel-low-citizens at the ensuing fall elections, there is none but those of a legislative character in which party claims should be suffered to have any weight, aside from high qualifications. The people owe it to themselves, their own safety, the impartial administration of law, and the efficient discharge of duty in every department of official service, to select the men best adapted for the offices for which they are named. If they suffer themselves to be governed by mere party feeling, they must expect an exhibition of partiality at the hands of their public servants; and thus, they will actually minister to a pro pensity, the curse of which will assuredly afflict themselves. If a judge is to be elected by party, is he not to infer party expectation of favor in the administration of justice? And if he could deal partially as between litigants of opposing political sentiments, what safeguard has any man that he will not in like manner deal partially between two individuals of the same party, according to their relative personal influence e inquiry presses itself home to every man with respect to all the minor offices to which candidates are to be elected; and the people will discern therein the necessity of act-ing from higher considerations than those of mere party.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.-Hon. Levi Woodbury. in a letter to the "Prisoner's Friend," in regard to the abolition of capital punishment, says:

"I have for some years been convinced that an experiment should be made by our legisla-tures to enforce the penal codes without inflicting death on the offender. By this change an opportunity will exist at least to reform the of-fender; and in a government like ours, of popular power, it is easy to restore a former system abould a new one fail to answer public expecta-

The friends of this reform throughout any land will rejoice to know that their purpose finds favor with one whose aid will be so powerful in promoting its success. Like all other reforms, this has originated with people who stood aside from the strife of politics and the task of legislation; and the favor of such men as Judge Woodbury will therefore be hailed by them as cheering and auspicious.

ROBBER ARRESTED .- Alfred Brest was yesterday arrested by officer Bell, upon a warrant $200 from Marshall's auction rooms, on the 6th

AN AMERICAN POLITICAL HISTORY - The fruits of the present labors of Colonel BENTON history will comprise an account of the operanently, it is said, and his speeches and writings rations of the times, and his analyses of the workings of each administration, will appear but as incidental to the grand design. This will surprise none who know the character of Col. B .- and who does not?-but where merit of the the world profits by the self-confidence of its possessor. A more talented, industrious, clearminded, and determined man than Col. B. has seldom if ever appeared upon the active stage of life; and it would be a difficult task to separate his name and influence from any important act of legislation during the last quarter of a century at least.

PRESENTATION OF A CANE. - A number of our citizens, including Messrs. Z. Collins Lee, Geo. citizens, including Messrs. Z. Collins Lee, Geo. E. Sangston, Alexander D. Kelly, M. O'Brien, George W. Grafflin, William Woodward, Wm. D. Townsend, William A. Loney, Wm. H. Ryan, Francis D. Duncan, Thomas C. Watkins, and G. F. R. Waesche, have thought proper to present R. W. Latham, esq., of Washington, in the most flattering terms, with a handsome cane, which has drawn from that centleman a wellwhich has drawn from that gentleman a well written letter in reply .- Balt. Argus.

Medical records tell of a gentleman who was sane upon every topic that could be suggested to him until a mountain was named, and that he then always flew off at a tangent. It is said that almost every man in the world has his mountain, great or small. If this be the case it is easy to tell what is Mr. LATHAM's mountain. From the time a proposition to dissolve this Union was first made, in seriousness, Disunion has been his mountain, and we have a hundred times heard him declaim upon the subject with a severity that few who know him would be willing to believe him guilty of! The idea seemed from the first to have impressed its image upon his mind in all its horrible deformity, and to have aroused every spark of indignation within him.

Mountains are things to be avoided: but if each man in our nation is to possess one in his imagination, may it be Disunion, and may it ever lead to the "method" our fellow-citizen exhibits in all the manifestations of his vehe-

His letter above alluded to, and which we published in the Telegraph the other day, is full of this mountain, and the writer reveals himself apon the subject in terms that may not be appreciated by those who do not think with him. They, however, can find a remedy in looking at their own mountains. But there are very many who see the same that Mr. L. looks upon, on one side or the other.

We yesterday announced in our telegraphic despatches the arrival of the steamer Europa at Halifax, bringing three days' later intelligence. She left Liverpool at 111 o'clock on the 14th. The Franklin arrived at Cowes on the morning her sons to exercise the important privileges of the 12th. The Lafayette was to sail on the 16th, and the City of Glasgow on the 17th, the berths of both vessels being full.

government will proceed with the Ecclesiastic Titles bill. The Exhibition was still attracting crowds, but not so many working people as was expected. Emigration continued unabated. The Galway people were rejoicing at the prospect of steam communication with New York. Trade was improving, and prices in the manufacturing districts were advancing. The weather is genial, and an abundant hay harvest is anticipated. The grain crops in England are healthy but backward. The crops in Ireland are promising, and there is no appearance of disease.

In France affairs are tranquil. The war in Algiers was over, and had resulted in the suppression of the rebellion. Commerce and trade were improving. The Bourse closed brisk, and the 5 per cents were 30 cents higher than on Wednesday. The Havre market closed inactive, notwithstanding the favorable reports from England.

The Indian mail had arrived, and the British provinces continued tranquil. The Pestwaur frontier and the Penjaut were threatened by bands of robbers. Money was firm. Freights high. Imports and exports dull. Cotton brisk. The Continental news is of very little in-

THE CHILD'S TROPHY.—We saw a pretty little girl of seven tripping to school this morning in a gladsome mood, with a little silver crescent suspended by a ribbon from her neck. "What is that?" we asked, pointing to the ornament. "Oh, sir," said she, "this is the medal for good spelling!" and she held it up for examination with an air of satisfied pride and conscious approval. We praised the medal and its wearer and the child bounded along before us, no doubt eager to relate to her companions the important incident of a stranger's salutation and encouraging words. Would that children could always be thus led: they become much happier and better men and women than they do who are Stringham, who refused to rescind the order.

We can speak from certain knowledge of the character of the men employed at this establishment. They are good workmen, orderly and honest men, and good citizens. There has almost uniformly existed between them and the officers in command a bond of good-will and mutual kindness. We know nothing of the grounds of the present dispute except what is ere stated upon the authority of our exchange papers; but we feel confident that insubord nation could never arise but from the most urgent necessity; and we sincerely hope that if measures unnecessarily stringent have been adopted with reference to them, they may be at once relaxed, and an amicable understanding produced.

THE PRESIDENTIAL EXCUBSION.—By a letter lated yesterday, received this morning from a member of this party, we learn that they would arrive at Richmond to-day, and are expected to return to this city on Saturday next.

ROBBERY .- Last evening about eleven o'clock man named Gould attempted to rob the lumber-vard of Mr. Waison, at the Navy Yard While in the act of carrying off a portion of the lumber, he was discovered by the lady of Mr. Simons, who resides in the adjoining house She immediately gave the alarm to her husband, and he lost no time in giving chase. He succeeded in grasping him by the coat, but after a short struggle the fellow made good his escape, leaving a portion of his apparel in the hands of his pursuer.

This morning he was found secreted in closet in his residence, where he was captured and taken before Squire Crandell, and by him committed to jail.

REFORM IN FEMALE DRESS .- The Philadel phia Sun says that five or six hundred ladies in favor of assuming the new garments met in that city on Saturday last, and determined almost unanimously to adopt the new style of dress. That paper adds: "We desire any change from the present waspish, hour-glass shaped mode of cutting female garments."

A SILENT HOME.—James George, a printer of Frankfort, and Louise W. Webster, of Rich mond, Ky., were married last week. The par ties are both deaf mutes, and were educated in the Institute at Danville.

GOLD .- It is stated in New York papers, that n Thursday morning a Wall street dealer in old-dust bought $100,000 worth from one pasenger in the Crescent City; and it is estimated that the passengers in that steamer brough $2,000,000, besides what was on the manifest.

THE NEXT PRESIDENCY .- "Scott and John ton" appears to be the Whig cry in Pennsylva nia. At Lancaster a new campaign paper, the National Whig, has been started by John L. Jones for their support.

The Lewisburg (Va.) Chronicle advocates the comination of Mr. Fillmore as the Whig candidate for the Presidency, and suggests Gov. Johnston, Secretary Stuart, Attorney General Crittenden and others, as candidates for the Vice-Presidency.

Whig State Convention.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 24. The Whig State Convention assembled here to-day and temporarily organized by electing Samuel Bell, of Berks county, President, and S. W. Pearson, of Somerset, and A. S. Henderson, of Lancaster, Secretaries. The attendance of delegates is full, and the crowd about the court-house immense. Gov. Johnston and other distinguished Whigs are present. The convention, after settling the question of contested seats, appointed a committee to report officers for their permanent organization. It is supposed General Scott will be nominated for the Presidency by a large majority, and that reso-lutions approving of the Compromise will be voted down.

JUNE 24, p. m.—The Whig Convention reassembled at two o'clock. The committee appropriate for President. pointed to report officers reported for President, Hon. John H. Irving, of Washington county, with twenty-six Vice Presidents, and seven secretaries. The President, on taking his seat, made a brief speech eulogistic of Gov. Johnston, and in favor of a high tariff. The Hon. Corneiius Darragh moved the appointment of a com-mittee of twenty-six to report resolutions, which was agreed to. While the committee was absent, on motion of Hon. A. J. Ogle, Wm. F. Johnston was nominated as the Whig candidate for Governor by acclamation, and a committee appointed to invite him to attend the deliberations of the Convention. The committee on resolutions reported a long series, favoring a high tariff, con-demning that of 1846, speaking respectfully of the compromise measures, and declaring themselves in favor of the maintenance of the Constitution, &c. While these resolutions were under consideration, John M. Scott, of Philadelphia, offered an amendment, recognising the right of owners of slaves to reclaim their property, and by implication condemning the act of which prohibits the use of our jails for their detention.

A lengthy debate arose, and the amendment was finally cut off by the previous question, which was sustained by a vote of 71 to 47, and the resolutions were adopted by a vote of 83

The Convention then took a recess until eight o'clock, and on reassembling proceeded to nom-inate candidates for Canal Commissioner. Some thirty prominent Whigs were placed in nomination, and about the time they were proceeding to ballot, Gov. Johnston entered and was received with tumultuous applause. The Convention then adjourned outside the building, and the crowd was addressed by Gov. Johnston, who was still speaking at ten o'clock.
